European HIV-Hepatitis Testing Week 2016!
18-25 November 2016

European HIV-Hepatitis Testing Week is scheduled for the last week of November! Tell your friends, it's not too late to sign up and participate!

Who has signed up so far?

Over 430 participating partners from all over Europe have already signed up for ETW. You can easily go to our website and see who from your community has signed up. If you are wondering why you should sign up this year or what you or other organisations can do, then take a look at our Get Involved section on our website.

What is new for ETW 2016?

We're working on updating all of the materials from last year to the most current data and re-branding them with the new 2016 ETW logo. Many of the new materials are already available here.

We are also developing three new factsheets to help you with your activities. The new topics include: how to reach government organisations and how to get involved in guidelines development/updates, benefits of focusing on key populations, and how to develop educational resources that resonate with key populations.

Are you on Facebook and Twitter?

We are too! Add us on Facebook and Twitter to stay connected and be the first to know all of the latest updates from testing week and information on HIV/Hepatitis testing. Also, if you have any documents that you want to share (i.e. materials translated into different languages, ideas for awareness promotion, etc.), you can upload them to our website here.

We would love to share your ideas with other participating partners. Help inspire others with your creativity!

Don't forget to document/take pictures of your testing activities. We would love to see and share your stories on our website, social media and through our newsletters. If you need some inspiration, there are two new success stories from the 2015 testing week available here.

The official hashtag for ETW is #Eurotestweek. If you're posting your testing week activities on social media, don't forget to use our tag so we can see and share your posts!

We will also be planning a Thunderclap and a Twitter Chat this year - stay tuned.

With Kind Regards,

The European HIV-Hepatitis Testing Week
